this book provides an introduction to various aspects of algebraic statistics with the principal aim of supporting master s and phd students who wish to explore the algebraic point of view regarding recent developments in statistics the focus is on the background needed to explore the connections among discrete random variables the main objects that encode these relations are multilinear matrices i e tensors the book aims to settle the basis of the correspondence between properties of tensors and their translation in algebraic geometry it is divided into three parts on algebraic statistics multilinear algebra and algebraic geometry the primary purpose is to describe a bridge between the three theories so that results and problems in one theory find a natural translation to the others this task requires from the statistical point of view a rather unusual but algebraically natural presentation of random variables and their main classical features the third part of the book can be considered as a short almost self contained introduction to the basic concepts of algebraic varieties which are part of the fundamental background for all who work in algebraic statistics the results of two related fieldwork projects are presented a brief salvage excavation at plakari a final neolithic site near the modern town of karystos and a survey of prehistoric sites on the paximadi peninsula the western arm of the karystos bay both located in southern euboea these ventures were part of the larger mission of the southern euboea exploration project seep a multidisciplinary research program dedicated to the study of the karystian past and which maintained a presence in southern euboea for over 25 years these projects have found that contrary to what archaeologists once believed southern euboea was hardly an uninhabited and isolated region in prehistory the inhabitants actively participated in the expanded maritime and social landscape that characterized the later neolithic and early bronze age in the aegean taking part in exchange networks of stone ceramics marble figurines and vessels and possibly agricultural goods and metalwork this book examines the origins development and history of the cult of saint catherine of siena gerald parsons argues that the cult of catherine of siena constitutes a remarkable example of the cult of a particular saint which across more than six centuries has been the vehicle for an evolving sequence of civil religious rituals and meanings he shows how the cult of this particular saint developed firstly as an expression of sienese civil religion secondly as a focus for italian civil religion and finally into an expression of european civil religion instead of the predominantly devotional and frequently essentially hagiographical approach of much of the literature on catherine of siena parsons examines the significance of her cult from the perspective of civil religion and the social history of religion
